

Arthur Griffith, Sinn Fein Founder, Dead

One of the Sanest Leaders in Long Fight For Independence Victim of Heart Failure Just as Free State Cause Seems to Be Triumphant.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 12.—Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein and one of the signers of the Anglo-Irish peace treaty, died from heart failure today, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Dublin.

Griffith was one of the outstanding figures in the political feud which developed after the signing of the Anglo-Irish peace treaty. He and Michael Collins led the fight for the treaty, the constitution and the Free State. The chief leader on the side which was contending for a republic was Eamon de Valera.

DEPUTY MARSHAL IS WOUNDED

Southern Pacific Property Damaged by Bombs Thrown From Outside Yards.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Roseville, Cal., Aug. 12.—Special Deputy U. S. Marshal J. P. Sullivan was wounded, wounds of the Southern Pacific roundhouse here were shattered and a portion of the stockade surrounding the yards torn down when five bombs exploded simultaneously here early today.

Sullivan was wounded in the mouth by a gun shot when he rushed out to investigate the explosions.

According to the deputy United States marshal in charge, two of the bombs were hurled from automobiles and two others by persons standing outside the stockade.

The bombs were of the black powder type and exploded with heavy detonations. A deputy U. S. marshal expressed the belief that some of the bombs contained shrapnel because of the manner in which round house windows were shattered.

Sullivan was taken to a hospital. He will recover.

BIG FOUR MEN OUT ON MO. PAC.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.—Three hundred members of the "big four" brotherhoods, including engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen, were idle today pending a decision from officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad on demands of the men for removal of armed guards about railroad property.

The walkout followed a mass meeting held at Dupon, Ill., at which the strike was decided upon.

Herman Weinstein reported to the police Friday night about 10:30 o'clock that while running his automobile out of Prince street toward Broadway a Colonial trolley car coming out Dedrick street hit the rear end of the auto, doing a little damage. Two women in the auto became hysterical and fainted and he started to take them to the city hospital, but they revived enroute and refused going to the hospital for treatment.

FUEL DICTATOR FOR N. Y. STATE

Only Work for Special Legislative Session Will be to Create This Office and Clothe it With Authority.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12.—An extraordinary session of the state legislature to deal with the coal situation will be called for some day during the week of August 21. It was officially announced at the executive chamber today.

It is expected the governor will call the lawmakers into special session, on Monday night, August 21. Adjournment probably will be taken the following day.

Creation of the office of state fuel administrator and clothing the office with broad powers will be the only legislation put through.

The governor, it is understood, is now at work on the message which he will send to the legislature.

The present state coal commission will cooperate with the coal administrator to be appointed by the governor under the proposed legislation.

FACTIONS CAUCUS ON COAL SCALE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Cleveland, O., Aug. 12.—Operators and miners here for the interstate conference by which it is hoped to establish a basic wage that will end the nation-wide strike, and avert a coal famine this winter, see in the renewed opposition by powerful interests in the four state field, a desire on the part of some to "profiteer" in the price of fuel this winter, as well as to grab markets which have heretofore belonged to other sections of the field, it was said here today.

A leading operator told International News Service today that the success of the present movement was the only hope of averting a fuel famine this winter of tremendous proportions.

Immediately after the reconvening of the joint scale sub-committee today, adjournment was taken to permit operators and miners to hold separate caucuses.

150,000 TO BE AT LEGION'S OCTOBER CONVENTION

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New Orleans, Aug. 12.—One thousand and uniformed members of the American Legion will assist the police in handling the 150,000 visitors expected at the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October, according to plans announced by Police Superintendent Molony.

The Legionnaires will aid the police in regulating the large crowds thronging the parade route and will serve as provost guards in the business section. A former army officer probably will be placed in charge of the provost guard force.

During a recent trip to Kansas City Superintendent Molony investigated conditions prevailing in that city during last year's American Legion convention. He discovered that city and police officials of Kansas City had no criticism to make concerning the way in which the 150,000 visiting ex-service men conducted themselves.

As proof that the men did nothing distasteful, Superintendent Molony said Kansas City officials would welcome the opportunity to have the organization again choose Kansas City as their convention city. In fact, Kansas City endeavored to have this year's convention held there.

GOVERNOR MILLER ON BOAT THAT WAS AFIRE

"Crusader's" Passengers Strapped on Life Belts.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lake George, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Governor Nathan L. Miller, Adolph S. Ochs of the New York Times, Charles J. Peabody of Boston, and several others were in danger for a short time yesterday afternoon when the steamboat Crusader on which they were aboard on Lake George caught fire.

The boat had reached what is known as the Narrows, and members of the party were joking about burning wood on the boat if the coal situation became too serious, when someone remarked that he smelled smoke.

The fire had started near the engine and while little damage had been done, the boat was partly filled with black smoke.

The governor and other members of the party strapped on life belts and the boat was headed for the first landing.

After the party landed the governor remarked that he thought he was going to get an "unexpected swim."

Schooning a Bidder.
David Schooning of Saugerties was one of the thirteen contractors that submitted bids for the construction of the College Hill reservoir at Poughkeepsie. His bid was for $114,000. The lowest bidder was Michael Delano of Ossining, his bid being $85,642. The contract will be awarded later.

Long Talked of Rail Showdown This Afternoon

Government Department Heads at Conference at Which Unions Present Their Rejection and Executives Their Modified Acceptance of Harding's Plan—Far West Increasingly Affected.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 12.—A highly important series of White House conferences, which will bring into direct contact all the principal figures in the railway strike situation, began here this afternoon, as the time drew near for both railway executives and shopmen to reply to President Harding's proposals.

The shopmen made a date to see the president at 2:30 o'clock, at which time it was reported they would give the president their expected rejection of his proposal.

At the same time it was learned that President Harding probably would have at the White House Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the Railway Labor Board; Attorney General Daugherty, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Labor Davis, Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, author of the Transportation Act and also of a bill empowering the government to take over the roads, and C. C. McChord, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, Aug. 12.—The entire transportation system of the nation was being slowly undermined today as the railroad strike moved back toward the White House for solution.

Reports from all over the country, coming to government officials as well as to labor leaders, meeting in Washington indicated the sporadic spread of the individual or voluntary strike on the part of the crews identified with the Big Four brotherhoods, and the continued interruption of train movements.

President Harding made engagements today to receive a delegation of the striking shopmen at 2:30 p. m. and a committee of the railway executives at 4:30.

While a committee representing the railway executives was understood to be enroute to Washington today with a conditional acceptance of President Harding's latest settlement program, the heads of the sixteen standard railroad unions went back into conference here to put into final form their rejection of the same proposition.

The conditional acceptance by the railway executives, reported from New York, will be offset and nullified by the rejection of the unions, and the whole problem will be thrown back into President Harding's hands before tonight.

There will be no immediate drastic move on the part of the government, according to all indications today. Whether the unions reply to President Harding today or defer it until Monday, President Harding's hands are more or less tied until Tuesday when he will have a full cabinet assembled in Washington to aid him. It is also considered likely there will be a full discussion by the entire cabinet on Tuesday before President Harding goes to congress with a special message to deal with the situation.

The terms of the shopmen's refusal to return to work while the Railway Labor Board decides the contentious question of seniority, as proposed by the president, already have been agreed upon.

All that remained for the union leaders to do when they went back into secret conference at 9 o'clock this morning was formally to approve the final written form of the rejection, combine in a general statement of labor policy, and complete plans for making the shopmen's strike more effective.

These plans for making the shopmen's strike more effective—already coming to the surface through the sporadic defection of other classes of railroad workers—require delicate handling.

The ten railroad unions that are not officially on strike do not want to collide with the conspiracy statutes but at the same time it can be stated positively that do want to aid the striking shopmen in every way possible.

Out of respect for the conspiracy statutes, and more particularly out of respect for the decision by the United States supreme court in the famous Coronado coal case, there will be no general strike order or strike call by the affiliated unions under any circumstances. It was said today in labor quarters.

The Coronado decision has been a compelling factor in the secret conferences that have been held to date. It was learned today. In this decision the supreme court held that a labor union is liable to be sued in its corporate name for damages caused by strikes. At this time, it was generally held by legal authorities that the decision constituted one of the greatest blows ever dealt organized labor.

With that decision constantly staring them in the face, those unions that are wealthy financially, like the four brotherhoods, distinctly do not want to court expensive and perhaps disastrous assaults upon their bank accounts.

The steady deterioration of railroad equipment during the six weeks of the repairmen's strike has afforded them a temporary solution of their difficulties through the authorization of individual or voluntary strikes whenever their members feel that the conditions of equipment or working conditions are prejudicial to life or limb.

There was every indication today that this policy of countenancing individual and voluntary walkouts will be continued. It not only safeguards the men who are frankly fearful of impaired equipment, but it also offers an avenue of action for those members of affiliated unions who have been urging a formal sympathetic strike.

There were intimations today in responsible labor quarters that the switchmen's unions may next be affected.

The rank and file of the switchmen's union are smarting under the defeat suffered in the famous "out-laws" strike of some months ago, and their leaders assert they have had a difficult time holding them in check.

Any considerable walkout by the organized switchmen coming on top of the strike of shopmen and the sporadic walkouts of engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen would incalculably complicate a bad situation. It is understood that discussion of informal "sympathetic action" by the unions in conference here, has actually got down to consideration of the individual roads upon which action would be most effective.

From the close secrecy maintained by the union leaders, it was learned today that much discussion of strategy has hinged upon the "key" roads that are considered the main arteries of railroad traffic—the New Haven in New England, the Santa Fe, serving the great southwest, the Illinois Central, serving the Mississippi valley, the Pennsylvania and New York Central, serving the middle west; the Southern, serving the south, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul in the northwest. It is upon these roads, according to responsible sources, that the "sporadic, voluntary strikes" can be looked for in the greatest volume if the executives persist in their present "hard boiled" attitude in the shopmen's strike.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the Railway Labor Board, was called to the White House for another conference with President Harding on the railroad strike crisis today. Hooper went to the White House at 10:30 a. m.

Washington, Aug. 12.—The tie-up of the Santa Fe Railroad has necessitated the re-routing of United States mails over the Southern Pacific. It was learned officially at the post office department today.

Officials believed the Santa Fe tie-up would not continue for more than a few days and that mail re-routing would only be temporary.

San Francisco, Aug. 12.—With a loss staring them in the face that leading growers said would dwarf the monetary cost of the San Francisco earthquake, California fruit growers today faced the most serious situation in their history as a result of the combined shopmen's strike and the walkout of the "Big Four" brotherhood men.

One great transcontinental artery has been tied up while other outlets to the east were gravely threatened. The Santa Fe Railroad, whose eastern outlet was cut off by the walkout of engineers, firemen and conductors at Needles, Cal., and Arizona points, today had placed embargoes on all perishables and was accepting other freight only subject to delay.

The Western Pacific Railroad was restricting its acceptance of east-bound perishables and the Southern Pacific, while placing no embargo was placing certain delivery restrictions.

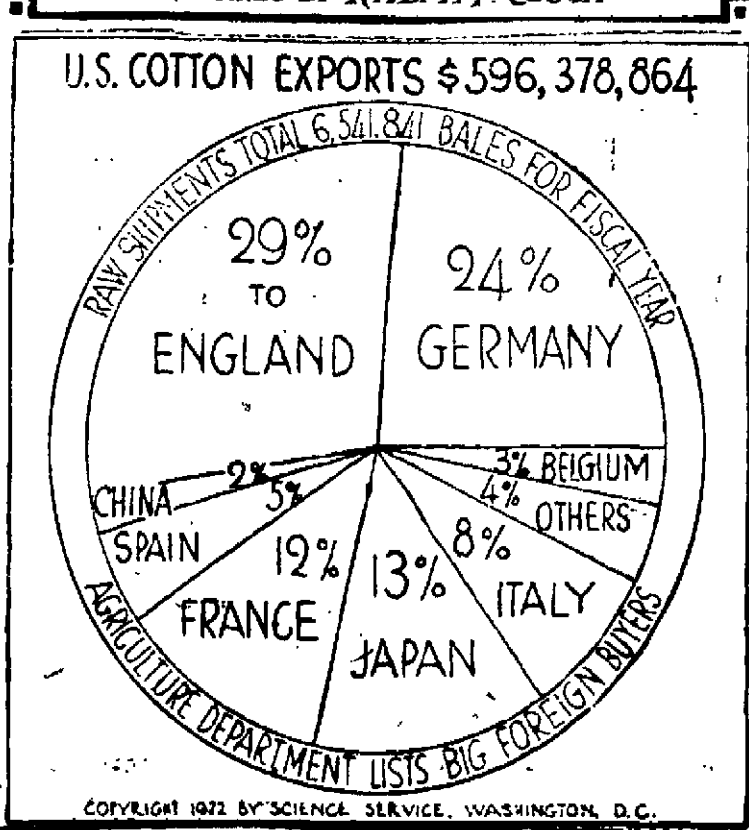

The greatest loss promised to fall on fruit growers in the rich San Joaquin valley, through which the Santa Fe runs. Crops this year are of record-breaking nature and are estimated in value at $50,000,000. Failure to place this fruit in the eastern market will result in its being an almost complete loss to growers.

For weeks the leaders of the fruit industry have expressed anxiety that a crisis in rail transportation would strike them at the height of the season. At their behest, two weeks ago, Governor W. D. Stephens appealed to President Harding to take steps to prevent such a situation as has arisen.

It was a question today how long the Western Pacific, the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific lines

OLDEST AUTO IN UNITED STATES

America's first car, built by Elwood Haynes in Indiana and successfully tested out near Kokomo, Ind., on July 4, 1884, was recently taken from Smithsonian Institution back to Kokomo for the twenty-eighth anniversary on July 4. Photograph shows Congressman Fred Purnell from that district in America's oldest car in front of Smithsonian Institution. This is the first time any article on exhibition in the institution has been removed.

NEAT TRICKS IN GREASING AUTOS

Vexatious Problem to Insert Lubricant Through Plughole Larger Than Gun Nozzle.

CHEMIST'S CORKS ARE IDEAL

Special Guns Are Part of Equipment on Many of Most Modern Cars Having Lubricating Systems—Clean Out Yearly.

One of the most vexatious greasing problems is to insert grease through a plughole larger than the nozzle of the gun. To keep the grease from going everywhere but into the hole, obtain a cork about the size of the largest plug on your car. Bore a hole in this cork so that it will slide over the stem of the grease gun, and when you are filling a large hole simply push this cork down to fill the oversize opening. Chemists' rubber corks are ideal for this purpose. A rag or some string packing wound around the stem of the gun can be forced down to act as would the cork.

Cars Have Greasing Systems.

Many cars now equipped with greasing systems using a special gun which connects with the nipples on the car. This makes it easy to do some advisable cleaning of the grease passages about once a season. Attach the empty gun, release the plunger so that it can be worked like a pump, and then proceed to force air through the grease connections. This will serve to clean out the distributing grooves in which grease residue has probably congealed during the winter. To make still more certain of perfect lubrication, precede the air pressure treatment with a similar treatment of kerosene to flush out the dirty old grease, which will be seen coming out on the opposite side of the spring shackle. Then use air pressure to force out the kerosene before applying fresh lubricant.

Other Places for Grease.

Nor is greasing something to be put only into gun cups and other specified places. Wipe some grease on the wheel shoulders against which the demountable rim rests on the inside. Do this about as often as removal of the rim is required by tire changing. At the same time apply grease sparingly to the rim fasteners and to the rim bolts. By this practice, nearly all rim squeaks are permanently ended.

The chief objection, apart from engineering considerations, is the difficulty of making a double gasket absolutely leak-proof. An ingenious method has been devised to eliminate the extra gasket and accomplish the same purpose. It is necessary first, to equip the car with so-called priming spark plugs. The little petcock intended for injection of gasoline is removed. This leaves a threaded port in the spark plug. In this hole screw a tube three or four inches long, with the end of the tube tightly capped. The effect is apparently the same as if the cylinder content were enlarged by the content of the tube—the object sought in the use of an extra gasket.

PLAN TO CLEAN REFLECTORS

Doze Thoroughly With Stream of Water Without Rubbing, Then Polish With Rouge.

Headlight reflectors become easily scratched. To polish them clean thoroughly with a stream of water without rubbing, and then polish with rouge, as it is used by jewelers, applying rotary motion. Because of the silver plate, do not rub hard.

Correct, Doctor.

"Hum," murmured the doctor absently, as he cut into his restaurant steak. "Hum, patient very sonlie with extreme hardening of the tissues."—New York Sun.

You Auto Know

That valve leakage is one of the most serious losses of economy in the operation of an automobile for, if the valves leak, it is almost impossible to get good compression in the cylinders, and this, in turn, exerts a powerful influence over the entire performance of the car, giving rise to knocks, loss of power and various other ills. Proper care of the valves and regular regrounding are therefore to be numbered among the "expenses" which are really economies for they will pay big dividends in efficiency and mileage.

Worn valve stems also cause leaks which are quite as serious as those of the valves themselves. In this case the failure of the valve stem to fit snugly into the guide allows air to be drawn past the stem into the cylinder, thinning the mixture to such an extent that the engine fails to run regularly unless the mixture is made richer, while throttling down to less than ten miles an hour is almost impossible. The fact that valve stems need attention is usually apparent from the hissing sound characteristic of this trouble.

FACILITATE REPAIRS ON ELEVATED STAND

Portable Platform for Auto Work Is Illustrated.

Two Longitudinal Rails of Wood, Ten Feet Long With Center Support, Will Prove Entirely Satisfactory—How Made.

In the small repair shop it is not always convenient or practical to have a work pit or a permanent elevated platform for removing the automobile far enough above the floor to give free and easy access underneath. A stand that is portable and on which an automobile can be placed in an elevated position is shown in the accompanying illustration.

It consists of two longitudinal rails of wood, 10 feet long. A center support with two pivots about 24 inches high forms a trestle on which the automobile is pulled by means of a winding bar, crank, handle, and rope, with a book to attach to the front axle of the automobile. Two fixed blocks on the forward ends of the rails with two sliding blocks on the rear ends rigidly support the automobile after it is pulled into place and the forward end lowered.

On account of the angle of the incline and the possibility of over-running, the winding drum should be the means of getting the automobile on the rails. Two wedges forward nailed in place will prevent the automobile from creeping to the front. Wedges are also placed under the rear wheels. When not in use, the parts are readily disassembled and placed aside.—Popular Science Monthly.

Mistakes Will Happen. Never misjudge the gear shift of the car for the emergency brake, nor the foot accelerator for the clutch pedal.

VIRTUE IN CHICAGO.

Probably Mayor Thompson of Chicago is not literary enough ever to have heard of the man "who stole the liver of the court of Heaven to serve the Devil in," but it would appear that he purposed to do something of that sort when he appointed the Rev. John H. Williamson as law enforcement commissioner at a salary of $10,000 a year "with supreme powers in caring for the city's moral welfare." This new office, according to the mayor's announcement, was created at the request of reform and religious organizations, but, after five months of the interesting experiment, these organizations as well as the local newspapers are outspokenly dissatisfied with the results, and it is rather bluntly intimated that Williamson, though his own personal integrity is not questioned, is merely a blind tool and paid defender of a corrupt administration.

The Chicago Daily News characterizes Williamson as "far less a law enforcer than a walking alibi for grinning fast workers who have administration backing and of whose existence he is not even aware." And the Tribune tartly observes: "Williamson at last has revealed sufficient explanation of his position. He is employed by the city hall to defend the worst administration the city ever had from the exposures of conditions made by other ministers and groups of citizens who try to restrict or suppress organized evil. We'll say he does not know the nature of his employment. His employers do." Such are the responses to the misplaced and misguided clergyman's child-like announcements of the splendid and continuing triumphs of virtue in Chicago.

GIRL SWIMMERS.

In the sea off Coney Island the other day fifty-two girls tried for the Day International Cup offered the best woman swimmer over a three and a half mile course, and every one of them covered the distance without exhaustion, although many of them were of tender years. Gertrude Ederle, the winner, being only fifteen, and the last girl to complete the course being only ten years old. Could fifty-two boy swimmers have done as well? They were all Americans. It is stated, except Miss Hilda James, the English girl who finished third. This remarkable showing was due to the New York Women's Swimming Association which, during the five years of its existence, has taught hundreds of girls to swim all the strokes, "breast, side, over-arm, trudgen, and crawl," as well as diving and floating.

The boys and young men of New York who swim will have to look to their laurels. Referring editorially to this remarkable swimming contest, the New York Times pointedly says: "It may be claimed that nothing like it had been known before in natatorial annals; so many youngsters of the gentler sex treating Father Neptune to a surprise that well might have caused him to drop his trident to the bottom of the sea. He is familiar enough with the unlovely male swimmer, individually and collectively, but here were more than fifty females of the species, some of them not long out of the nursery, swimming with imitable grace and speed, and for a whole hour and more, in a choppy sea, their arms flashing white as they sped on to the finish. It was a great achievement."

Maximilian Harden is said to be the only German who sees no good for his country in dissension among the Allies. Is this because he is the only prominent German who is a man of vision?

Sir Charles Higham indignantly denies the report that he said Americans are still "dazzled" by a lord, and asserts his pride in the fact that his mother is an American citizen, now residing in Brooklyn, where he himself lived until his thirtieth year. It seems that his title was conferred on him no great while ago for services in advertising in behalf of the British government.

The acute labor troubles of our times recall the prophecy made in 1857 by Macnulty, the British historian, returning to the United States: "I believe to be certain, that it is destined by a physical cause. As long as you have a boundless extent of fertile and unoccupied land your laboring population will be far more at ease than the laboring population of the Old World, and while that is the case the Jeffersonian politics may continue to exist without causing any fatal calamity." The incidental criticism of democracy in this should not cause us to blink the fact that, for the reason stated, economic conditions in this country are far more complex and trouble-breeding now than they were in 1857.

Burroughs Nature Club Notes

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. How does a woodpecker know where to strike when boring into bark?
2. Are oranges native American fruit?

Answers to Monday's Nature Notes.

1. Do mice have any voice? Yes, they can often be heard squeaking in a high note as they run through walls. Also, mice are on record of individual specimens that seemed to make a deliberate musical effort in a kind of tuneful chirrup. One record tells of an apparently common pantry-mouse that came out and "sang" when certain notes were struck on the piano.

2. Enclosed is a leaf from my grape arbor with small white cocoon. I destroyed about 50 with a brush and kerosene. What is it, and is it harmful, and how can it be exterminated?
The "cocoon" attached was that of a small spider, which under microscope showed eggs. The entomologist who examined it thinks it harmless to the grapes; but if persistent in the arbor, a kerosene emulsion or a nicotine spray would help. An insect may live upon a given plant without preying on it—probably this spider was in the grape arbor for the sake of other insects, not for the vine.

3. Do we have any wild parrots in the United States?

No, though we did have a Carolina parakeet many years ago, ranging from the Atlantic coast as far west as Texas and Central Colorado, and in summer as far north as part of New York state. This gay little green-bodied, yellow-headed, long-tailed bird was a fruit thief, a handsome cage bird, and highly ornamental as hat trimming. What with farmers, dealers, and milliners all against him, he was all but gone by the early part of the present century, and is now counted extinct.

Cousins.

Cousin as a term of relationship means the children of brothers or sisters. Such children are first cousins to each other, or cousins-german. The children of first cousins are to each other second cousins, and so on. The child of a first cousin is to the first cousin of his father or mother a first cousin once removed.

WHY

Fumigation Now Rarely Is Used as a Disinfectant

The value of routine fumigation of rooms as a means of preventing the spread of infectious diseases has been questioned of late years, says the Journal of the American Medical Association. The experience of the health authorities at Providence, R. I., extending over many years, indicates that the abandonment of room disinfection is not followed by any noticeable increase in the number of secondary cases.

In New York and in several other cities terminal disinfection has been omitted since 1913 in cases of scarlet fever and in several other diseases.

It is now the general belief that the germ of acute infection of the respiratory tract do not survive very long outside the body. The trend of the recent investigation has been to show that the main danger of infection is by direct transmission from convalescents, mild cases and healthy carriers. Better results are likely to be obtained in preventing the spread of most infectious diseases by giving attention to the human sources of infection rather than by resorting to frequent fumigation with a germicidal gas.

Why the Mongoose Has Been Barred Out as a Distinctly "Undesirable Alien."

The mongoose is an "undesirable alien." The other day the steamer Dromore Castle docked after a 28-day voyage from Cape Town. She resembled a modern ark, as her cargo was animals entirely. Along with the lions, leopards, koodoo antelopes, wart hogs, night apes, gnus, bush babies, snakes and birds, were 15 mongooses and those were promptly turned back though Kipling made the mongoose a hero. "The mongoose is a killer. It will tackle anything and is referred to as the 'lion's provider,' because, having sucked the blood from an animal, it leaves the carcass for the king of beasts. In the tropics, it is a friend of man, because it cleans out rats and snakes. It did that for Uncle Sam in Porto Rico. But having rid the locality of pests, the mongoose turns to domestic animals and fowls, for it must eat. Hence, in 1910, congress passed a law which bars it from the United States. The mongoose will tackle and kill a cobra. But it will also eat a fat hen. So the 15 are on their way back to Africa.

Why Brain Can't Be Overworked.

Don't be afraid of overworking the brain; you can't do it. You can't think too much, observes a London Answers writer.

"The more the mind does," says a prominent medical authority, "the more it can do."

Another well known doctor said recently:

"In all my practice as a physician dealing with nervousness and mental diseases, I can say without hesitation that I have not met a single case of nervous or mental trouble caused by too much thinking or overstudy. What produces mental trouble is worry, emotional excitement or lack of interest in one's work."

So there is no need to be afraid. The more you think, study or plan, the better it is for you, because you are training your mental powers. You cannot overwork the brain as long as you keep it healthy with outdoor exercise whenever possible. Then it will re-perpetrate of its own account. It is worry that destroys the brain—worry, fear, bad feelings and mental idleness.

How Ice Is Giving Up Dead.

The glaciers and snow fields of Switzerland melted so much during the long, hot summer of 1921 that many long-lost bodies were found. One was that of a guide lost 13 years ago; another a Swiss school teacher who disappeared in 1914, and in as much as the winter just past has been mild, it seems that many more bodies will be recovered this summer. It is hoped that the remains of Lord Frederick Douglas, killed during Whymper's ascent of the Matterhorn in 1865, may be found. Ice surpasses embalming, and if we could get to the bottom of the Arctic ice we might learn what men were like 50,000 years ago.—Indianapolis News.

How a Fish Flies.

Some highly interesting observations on flying-fishes have been made by Dr. E. H. Hapkin, in the Arabian sea. In still weather the length of a glide was about a meter, with considerable lateral instability; in a light wind this was increased to from 200 to 400 meters. A resemblance between the wing action of soaring vultures and the fin action of the fishes was marked. In both, the wing or fin is inclined upward, the outer part at a higher level than the base, in slow-speed flights, while both show a downward inclination in flight at high speed.

How Instinct Rules Mankind.

Dr. Bernhard Hart, lecturing at the Royal Society of Arts in London recently, brought out the point that man, as well as animals, is largely guided by instinct, reason and intelligence being merely guides or weapons in the hands of instinctive forces. The sex instinct, he said, was one of the most powerful in the human mind and unquestionably responsible for much of our behavior. The herd instinct was the mainspring of convention.

How Human Blood Stains Are Known.

Human blood stains may be differentiated by a serologic test from the blood of all animals with the exception of the anthropoid apes.

No Flirting in Korea.

Flirting is unknown among Korean girls. Indeed, an unmarried girl in Korea is so disgraced by even speaking to a male not of her own family that she often kills herself rather than endure the shame.

MOTHER GOAT

"There is a little girl named Margaret," said Mother Goat, "and she has sense."

"Yes, my child, she has sense. Now it is all right to be a goat and to be silly."

"People speak of each other sometimes and say: 'She is a silly goat,' and it is anything but a compliment. Well, that is all right, for people are not supposed to be goats and goats are not supposed to be people."

"Now you see that shows I have sense. Of course some might say I hadn't so much sense to say anything so well known as that. But the best of speeches become well known and that is a fine speech."

"As it is known already it will be easy for people to remember it!"

"Now our pictures were taken. Yours and mine, my child. And this little girl named Margaret was so much taken with them that she cut them out of the paper when she saw them and kept them just as she would keep pictures of her dear friends and relatives."

"Yes, it was a great honor. She has sense. I said that before. But it doesn't matter if I did for I am only a goat and I can be silly whereas it is important that a person should have sense."

"Now she lets people see our pictures. She lends them to people to cheer them up if they feel ill or if she thinks they want something beautiful to gaze upon."

"Yes, she lends our photograph about just as they send great and famous paintings from one country to another so that lots and lots of people can see them."

"She says she likes the way I look in the picture, for she thinks I look so contented. She says I look 'smug and supercilious' and that means she believes that I look self-satisfied and a little proud. But she likes that look on my face. On a goat's face a smug look has charm."

"She likes the way you look, for you have such a 'hastful smile,' she says. And she also enormously admires your ears which droop so beautifully."

"She calls you a 'coy young thing'."

"Well, now I'll tell you something else. You know it seems to me that we animals don't get fair treatment at all times."

"I don't mean we're being treated cruelly, oh dear no."

"But I think it seems a pity that people should hear about us—we animals—and of our ways and of what we do that is queer and all of that and yet we don't hear about them."

"Yes, it is told all about it. We have curious habits and just what we do, but we'd like to hear of the queer things that people do."

"Do you suppose children ever eat up newspapers, too? Probably they don't as they think it is queer that we do. Doubtless they eat baseballs and marbles and things like that and it has always been kept from us."

"But I asked Fairy Wondrous Secrets who was around one day to tell me about Margaret—who has our photograph."

"Margaret," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets "has beautiful pink cheeks and soft, smooth skin. She has dark brown hair—such pretty, pretty hair. Her eyes are blue and she has a wonderful smile and a merry laugh and a gay, cherry voice, and she draws and paints most wonderful pictures."

"Fairy Wondrous Secrets has told her many secrets about how to make lovely pictures—that is why she draws so many lovely ones."

"Yes, Fairy Wondrous Secrets told me all that. And maybe when Margaret grows up she will paint our beauty."

"Oh, Mother Goat," said the little one, "I don't want to be painted. My face would feel queer if it were painted."

"Not you exactly, my dear silly goat child, but a likeness of you. She won't paint your own little face, but she will paint a picture to look like your face."

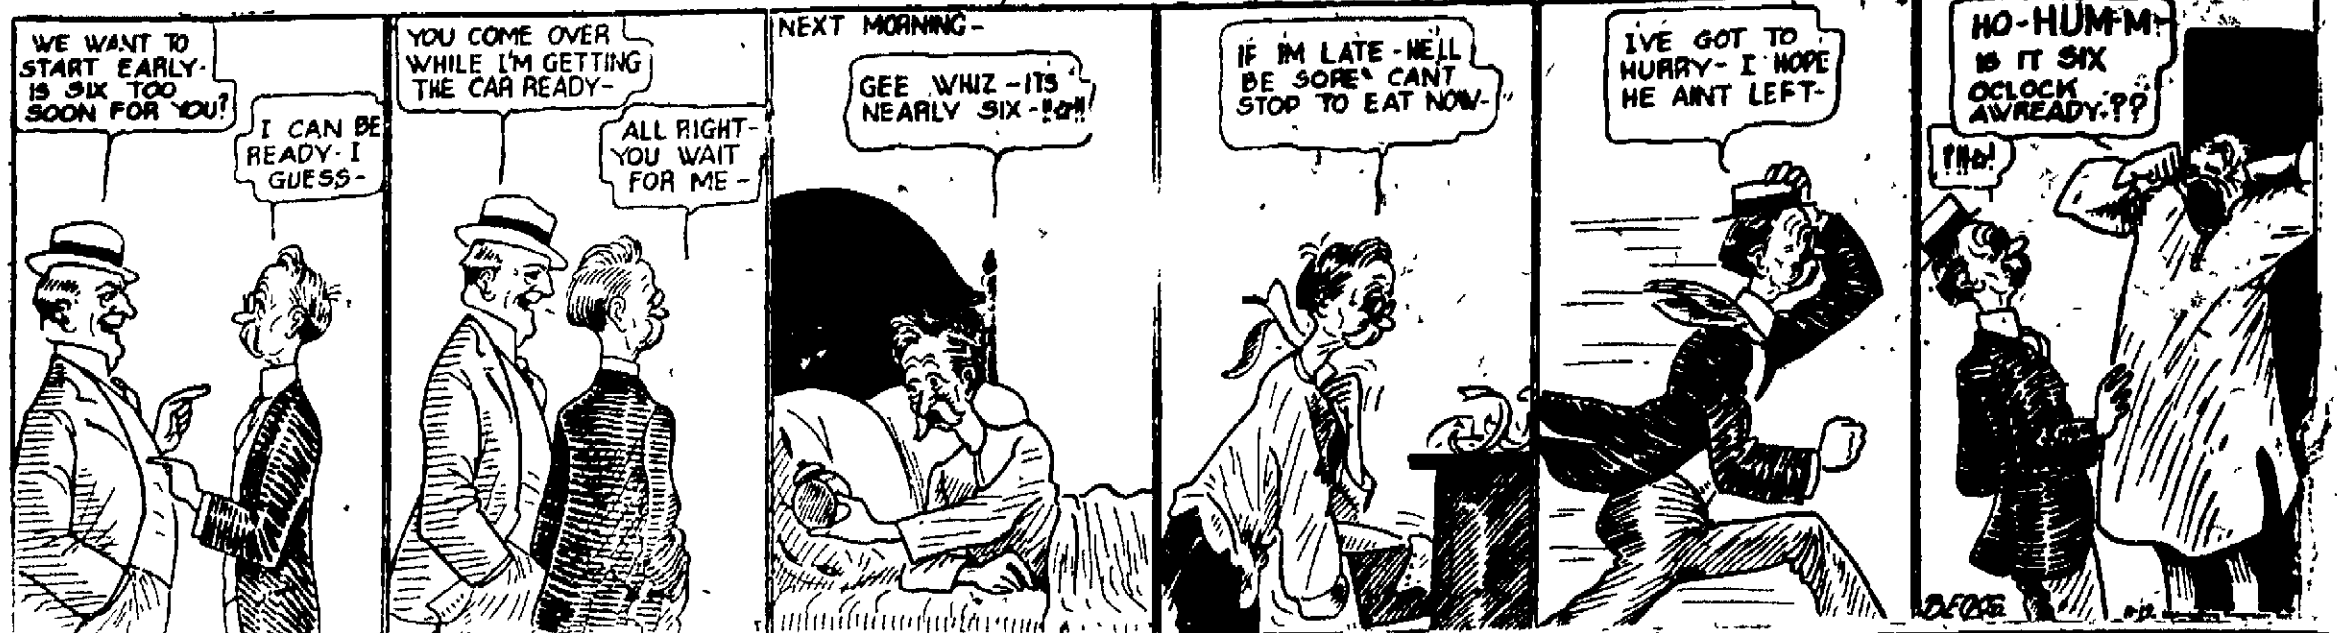

"In the meantime your face gazes at her along a wall which has pictures upon it of the faces of those she loves and admires most. Ah, she knows how to appreciate goats and she appreciates goat beauty."

"Some day we hope she will paint us. In the meantime let us look our best so we will have more pictures taken and so people will tell Margaret how wise she was to have seen our beauty first."

IF YOU HAVE HONEY

Honey eaten in its natural state is so healthful that any, who can, should keep a hive of bees to provide this delectable sweet. Cakes, cookies and other such foods retain their freshness much longer when honey is used for the sweetening.

Honey Tea-Cake.—Take one cupful of honey, one half cupful of flour, one half cupful of butter, two cupfuls of soda, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Soft Honey-Cake.—Put a teaspoonful of soda in a measuring cup, add five tablespoonfuls of hot water to the soda, then fill the cup with extracted honey. Take one-half cupful of softened butter and one egg, cut well, add two cupfuls of flour and a teaspoonful of ginger, stir all together and bake in a slow oven.

Crackerjack.—Take one cupful each of brown sugar and extracted honey, boil until it hardens in cold water. Remove from the stove and stir in one-half teaspoonful of soda; add all the popcorn it will take, with a handful of shelled peanuts. Press into a greased dripping pan and mark in squares.

Potato Cake.—Take two cupfuls of mashed potato, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of honey, one cupful of butter, one cupful of sour milk, four eggs, two teaspoonfuls of soda, one-quarter of a cupful of grated chocolate, one teaspoonful each of nutmeg and cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, two cupfuls of flour, one cupful of chopped nuts and two cupfuls of raisins. Beat the butter, sugar and honey to a cream, add the beaten eggs, then the chocolate, milk, soda, flour, mashed potato, spices, nuts and raisins. Turn into a well-greased and floured tin and bake in a moderate oven.

Honey Ginger Snaps.—Take one pint of honey, three-fourths of a pound of butter, two teaspoonfuls of ginger, boil together for five minutes, then cool when nearly cold add flour to make a stiff mixture, roll very thin and bake quickly.

The Silver String.

The strings of a violin are each of a different thickness to meet the requirements of tone and tension. The fourth string is covered with fine wire either a white metal or real silver hence it is often called "the silver string." Violas, violoncellos and double-basses have each two covered strings, the object being to insure a sufficient gravity of tone without having too clumsy a material. The covered strings on the guitar are upon a basis of silk instead of catgut. The best gut comes from Italy, which has been famous for centuries for this product. Strings are carefully selected and graded as to size so that they shall be uniform. The larger strings for the bigger instruments are stretched on frames for three or four days. The covered strings are finished on a special lathe, which covers them with from six to five silver-plated copper wire, or even silver.

MOTHER GOAT

"There is a little girl named Margaret," said Mother Goat, "and she has a secret."

"Yes, my child, she has a secret. Now it is all right to be a goat and to be silly."

"People speak of each other sometimes and say:

"She is a silly goat," and it is anything but a compliment. Well, that is all right, for people are not supposed to be goats and goats are not supposed to be people."

"Now you see that shows I have sense. Of course some might say I hadn't so much sense to say anything so well known as that. But the best of speeches become well known and that is a fine speech."

"As it is known already it will be easy for people to remember it!"

"Now our pictures were taken. Yours and mine, my child. And this little girl named Margaret was so much taken with them that she cut them out of the paper when she saw them and kept them just as she would keep pictures of her dear friends and relatives."

"Yes, it was a great honor. She has sense. I said that before. But it doesn't matter if I did for I am only a goat and I can be silly whereas it is important that a person should have sense."

"Now she lets people see our pictures. She lends them to people to cheer them up if they feel ill or if she thinks they want something beautiful to gaze upon."

"Yes, she lends our photograph about just as they send great and famous paintings from one country to another so that lots and lots of people can see them."

"She says she likes the way I look in the picture, for she thinks I look so contented. She says I look 'smug and supercilious' and that means she believes that I look self-satisfied and a little proud. But she likes that look on my face. On a goat's face a smug look has charm."

"She likes the way you look, for you have such a 'bashful smile,' she says. And she also enormously admires your ears which droop so beautifully."

"She calls you a 'coy young thing.' Well, now I'll tell you something else. You know it seems to me that we animals don't get fair treatment at all times."

"I don't mean we're being treated cruelly, oh dear no."

"But I think it seems a pity that people should hear about us—we animals—and of our ways and of what we do that is queer and all, of that and yet we don't hear about them."

"Let Us Look Our Best."

"Yes, it is told all about if we have curious habits and just what we do, but we'd like to hear of the queer things that people do."

"Do you suppose children ever eat up newspapers, too? Probably they don't as they think it is queer that we do. Doubtless they eat baraballs and marbles and things like that and it has always been kept from us."

"But I asked 'Fairy Wondrous Secrets' who was around one day to tell me about Margaret—who has our photograph."

"Margaret," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets, "has beautiful pink cheeks and soft, smooth skin. She has dark brown hair—such pretty, pretty hair."

"Her eyes are blue and she has a wonderful smile and a merry laugh and a gay, cherry voice, and she draws and paints most wonderful pictures."

"Fairy Wondrous Secrets has told her many secrets about how to make lovely pictures—that is why she draws so many lovely ones."

"Yes, Fairy Wondrous Secrets told me all that. And maybe when Margaret grows up she will paint our beauty."

"Oh, Mother Goat," said the little one, "I don't want to be painted. My face would feel queer if it were painted."

"Not you exactly, my dear silly goat child, but a likeness of you. She won't paint your own little face, but she will paint a picture to look like you face."

"In the meantime your face gazes at her along a wall which has pictures upon it of the faces of those she loves and admires most. Ah, she knows how to appreciate goats and she appreciates goat beauty."

IF YOU HAVE HONEY

Honey eaten in its natural state is so healthful that any, who can, should keep a hive of bees to provide this delectable sweet. Cakes, cookies and other such foods retain their freshness much longer when honey is used for the sweetening.

Honey Tea-Cake.—Take one cupful of honey, one-half cupful of sour cream, two eggs, one-half cupful of butter, two cupfuls of flour, scant one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Soft Honey-Cake.—Put a teaspoonful of soda in a measuring cup, add five tablespoonfuls of hot water to the soda, then fill the cup with extracted honey. Take one-half cupful of softened butter and one egg; cut well, add two cupfuls of flour and a teaspoonful of ginger, stir all together and bake in a slow oven.

Crackerjack.—Take one cupful each of brown sugar and extracted honey, boil until it hardens in cold water. Remove from the stove and stir in one-half teaspoonful of soda; add all the popcorn it will take, with a handful of shelled peanuts. Press into a greased dripping pan and mark in squares.

Potato Cake.—Take two cupfuls of mashed potato, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of honey, one cupful of butter, one cupful of sour milk, four eggs, two teaspoonfuls of soda, one-quarter of a cupful of grated chocolate, one teaspoonful each of nutmeg and cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, two cupfuls of flour, one cupful of chopped nuts and two cupfuls of raisins. Beat the butter, sugar and honey to a cream, add the beaten eggs, then the chocolate, milk, soda, flour, mashed potato, spices, nuts and raisins. Turn into a well-greased and floured tin and bake in a moderate oven.

Honey Ginger Snaps.—Take one pint of honey, three-fourths of a pound of butter, two teaspoonfuls of ginger; boil together for five minutes, then cool; when nearly cold add flour to make a stiff mixture, roll very thin and bake quickly.

The Silver String.

The strings of a violin are each of a different thickness to meet the requirements of tone and tension. The fourth string is covered with fine wire, either a white metal or real silver, hence it is often called the silver string. Violas, violoncellos and double-basses have each two covered strings, the object being to insure a sufficient gravity of tone without having too clumsy a material. The covered strings on the guitar are upon a basis of silk instead of catgut. The best gut comes from Italy, which has been famous for centuries for this product. Strings are carefully selected and graded as to size so that they shall be uniform. The larger strings for the bigger instruments are stretched on frames for three or four days. The covered strings are finished with a special lacquer, which covers them with a fine silk or fine silver-plated copper wire, or even silver.

The ex-Athletics beat the Athletics when Joe Bush, ably assisted by Joe Dugan, put the Yankees on the long end of a 3 to 2 score.

The Red Sox staged a triple play in the ninth but it went for naught as Walter Johnson's hitting, to say nothing of his pitching, had put the Senators safely in front.

The Giants made six hits count for six runs while the best the Dodgers could get out of eight blows was one run.

Luque and Markle got in front of the Pittsburgh tornado and are in the worse for wear today as a result. Cooper held the Reds to five hits.

Heavy hitting enabled the Phillies to nose out the Braves.

KAYSEES TODAY, WETMORE SUNDAY

The Colonials will line up against the Green Island K. of C. this afternoon at the home grounds with a determination to wipe out the disgraceful defeat handed out to them on their visit a couple of weeks ago up state. The setback in Friday's game proves to the Schrickmen that they have to fight for anything they get without any breaks of late and from start to finish they will be full of fight. "Mike" McAniff will undoubtedly be the hurler this afternoon and if in trim the Kaysees will have to go at top speed to cross the rubber.

Sunday afternoon another stiff struggle faces the Schrickmen when the Parker Axes of Poughkeepsie again come to this city to do battle with the local squad. The Colonials are very anxious to get this game as it will put them master of the Wetmore aggregation, winning the best out of three games. Just who Wetmore will have in his line-up is not known and never is until the last minute, but it is expected that Freddie will surely bring new players. Bud Culleton will probably do the pitching. Bud had one off day this season so far, which is a glorious record and it is hoped that he won't have an off day Sunday, so Poughkeepsie can watch his speed again.

STAMFORD TEAM LOSES SOME OF ITS STARS.

Owing principally to financial conditions, the Stamford baseball team has been reorganized under management of a Mr. Mullane. In the shakeup Carroll, the star twirler of the team, has gone with the Oneonta Giants. Semindinger, the heaviest batter, has gone to Fitchburg, Mass., and Captain Martin has gone to Holyoke, Mass., to play twilight ball. Carroll, who went with the Oneonta team, is considered the best college pitcher in the east today. Recently he held the Detroit leaguers down to three hits in an exhibition game and he has refused several offers from major league teams who wanted him to sign.

FRANCE NEARLY OUT AT TENNIS

Patterson of Australia Figured to Beat Cochet Today Allowing Team to Beat "Down Under" to Meet Spain in Final.

(By David J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to the Freeman.

Boston, Aug. 12.—The two final singles matches in the Australia versus France series of the Davis Cup semi-final round at Longwood today should and probably will be a mere formality. In the second of these, Gerald L. Patterson, of Australia, will meet Henri Cochet of France, and unless all signs fail, everyone can take their feet in their hands and go on about their business directly after the match. Gerald should knock Henri for a tray of French pastry.

If he does, the verdict will go to Australia, regardless of what Andre Gobert of France, may do to Pat O'Hara-Wood of Australia, in the other singles match. Australia will then have scored three victories in a possible five, and qualified itself to meet Spain in the final round at Philadelphia next week.

Were it not for the dark day impending and the severity of Patterson's service, Cochet would not be a forlorn hope altogether today. Indeed, this twenty-year-old French schoolboy has surprised everyone with the tennis he has uncovered here and on the face of the returns, is certainly no man's sap. He might even carry Patterson to five sets for, aside from his service, the winner of the All-Comers' singles at Wimbledon has been far from impressive in this series.

Cochet's game has two outstanding weaknesses, to wit: He lacks anything that might even be construed as an adequate service, and he is inclined to fall prey to inexperience. The latter finds expression in faulty court tactics and inclination to indulge himself in fits of wildness.

That will all wash out in the laundry, one of these fine days and then Henri Cochet of France, will come into recognition as one of the finest singles players in the world. Right now he has developed the overhead smash to a point where it is suicidal to lob to him anywhere but at the base line. His fore and backhand drives are of equal strength and accuracy. All in all, he is not very far from being a finished player right at this moment and he is improving every day.

Unless the strain of playing ten sets in two days has exacted its physical toll from the middle-aged Cochet, he should dispose of O'Hara-Wood in the other singles match, but the victory will be of little moment should the Patterson-Cochet affair run through to calculations. O'Hara-Wood was the man of the hour in the doubles victory of the Australians yesterday, a victory that virtually decided the current series. He, however, is not such a much in singles, lacking as he does everything that counts for accuracy and an ability to cover court. Cochet will know too much for him.

It can be readily seen, therefore, that had the French won that sensational doubles match yesterday, they and not the Australians would figure to go down to Philadelphia for that rendezvous with Spain. The French were twice within two points of doing that little thing.

The sky is overcast and a threat of rain is in the air. If the impending deluge holds off, a capacity house is likely to view the final matches for the colorful French have ingratiated themselves with the local galleries and would be prime favorites even if they never win a match.

The spectacle of the six foot three Cochet playing doubles with the five foot five Cochet alone was worth the price of admission to say nothing of Cochet's ready persiflage and Cochet's youthful fire and desperation.

ALL STARS AND RANGERS PLAY THE GAME

The Kingston All Stars received quite a surprise Thursday evening at Port Ewen, when they played the Ranger A. C. Instead of the "walk away" that they expected they were held to a 3 to 3 tie, when Umpire Cullen called a halt to hostilities because of darkness.

It was one of those well played games crammed full of good baseball. Both teams played errorless ball and it was a mighty difficult matter to score runners.

The All Stars started off strong. After Van Bramer was called out on strikes, Ditzel tripped to left and scored on Cullen's single to center. Leskie and Muller fanned.

The Rangers evened it up in the second on a walk, a sacrifice and a single. With three on and two out in the sixth, Peotz weakened and forced two men in on walks, putting the Rangers in the lead 3 to 1. However, Kingston scored one in the sixth, and tied it up in the seventh, when McNelis walked and Peotz sacrificed him to second. McNelis scored on Van Bramer's two bagger to right. The latter going to third on a passed ball. He was left when Cullen grounded out to Ditzel. Port Ewen was unable to score in its half, although they had two on, but a double play cut down their rally.

Both pitchers were hit freely, but gill-oed support made runs scarce. The score:

FOR PERFECT BAIT CASTING—THESE ARE THE REELS

TO CAST perfectly—without a back-lash, snarl or tangle—is over half of the real thrill and sport of game-fishing. To make every cast a perfect cast—is the added pleasure and joy which comes to anglers using the South Bend Anti-Back-Lash Reel or the new South Bend Level-Winding Anti-Back-Lash Reel.

It is impossible to make other than a perfect cast with either of these reels. Both have the famous South Bend Anti-Back-Lash feature, which in reality "thumbs" your reel for you. This device automatically stops the reel spool the instant your bait "lands" at the end of the cast.

The new South Bend Level-Winding Anti-Back-Lash Reel is a combination of the South Bend Anti-Back-Lash feature, with the Level Winding or spooling device of the celebrated Shakespeare. Upon reeling in, your line winds perfectly even and level. Come in and inspect both these reels.

"Ask the Man Who Owns One"

A bitter contest is being waged in Texas in the run-off primaries for the Democratic nomination to the United States Senate. In which the candidates are State Railroad Commissioner Earle E. Mayfield and James E. Ferguson, who was impeached and removed as governor in 1917. The primary will be held August 22, the successful candidate to oppose the Republican nominee in November. Personal attacks have marked the campaign. Mayfield, originally a candidate to oppose the "Ex-Cum-ling" act and permit each state to fix its own rate, together with no cancellation of the foreign debt and "160 pp. com. Americanism," is said to have the backing of the Ku Klux Klan, of the latter issue. Ferguson accused Mayfield of being a member of the Klan and of not being sincere in his backing of the Volstead act. Ferguson is running in a platform of opposition to the dry law and in favor of union labor in his fight for the closed shop.
